Catalogues may be available for a faculty, department or major subject.

Please begin by selecting the faculty whose catalogues you wish to access.

If the name of the department is preceded by a plus sign, the departmental disciplines can be accessed by clicking on the sign.

The catalogues are listed under the name of the unit.

If the department has not posted a catalogue on WebOodi, you can click on the links to the right of the department's name to browse and courses that the department offers.

Courses and teaching in English at the Faculty of Social Sciences

This Study Guide lists courses and teaching in English at the Faculty of Social Sciences in the academic year 2012-2013. Usually students have unrestricted access to courses at their own department/major subject and to other courses given in English, but sometimes restrictions may apply (e.g. in terms of methods courses and seminars priority is always given to degree students of the subject in question).

All courses and teaching of the different major subjects of the Faculty of Social Sciences are also listed under the tab Teaching. If you browse other study guides than Courses in English in the WebOodi system, you will most likely find information on courses taught in Finnish and Swedish. Although some of the information is provided in English, it does not mean that the courses are necessarily taught in English. In order to make sure that the courses you are searching for are in fact taught in English, only use this study guide under the tab Teaching or the links available below. Otherwise, please remember to check the language of instruction on the right corner of the course page.

General information Teaching Examinations Study blocks Study units

All courses on this page are taught in English. However, in some of the seminars both English and Finnish may be used (you can check the language of instruction on the right corner of the course page). Courses and teaching are categorised by level of studies. General Studies and Basic Studies are directed at students who are at the beginning of their studies (1st or 2nd year Bachelor students), Intermediate/Subject Studies are for students who normally are in their 2nd or 3rd year of Bachelor studies, Advanced Special Studies are meant for the Master's students and/or students on a Master's level. Postgraduate/doctoral studies are directed at doctoral students.

Explanation of terms used in the list of courses

- Code will take you to the page containing basic information on the course, such as content and prerequisites. At the bottom of the basic information page you will find two lists: "Current and future teaching" and "Future examinations". Please notice that these two lists do not contain information on courses in English only but may also include data on courses and teaching in Finnish.
- Name will take you to information on course arrangements such as teachers, timetable and lecture halls/locations.

Planning your studies

When you plan your studies please note that you should choose courses from the Department which holds the Erasmus agreement at the University of Helsinki via which you are applying (Erasmus students), or according to what is stated in the University Bilateral Agreement (students on other programmes).

The right to attend courses from other Departments must always be given by the Department that organizes the courses. If places are limited, priority will be given to the Department's own exchange students.

Annual workload is 60 credits (= 60 ECTS credits). Exchange students are expected to complete 30 credits (=30 ECTS credits) in a semester. It is possible to gain credits in different ways, for example:

- coursework
- laboratory work
- exams
- field work
- training courses

Please note that it is also possible to work on your Master's thesis, for example data collation, or equivalent work. If you are planning to come to the University of Helsinki to work on your Master's thesis or research, to do
